

CALL FOR PAPERS

FIFTH BIENNIAL ROCHESTER GRADUATE EPISTEMOLOGY CONFERENCE

October 10-11, 2008

Keynote Speaker: Alvin Goldman

Professor of Philosophy, Rutgers University

Commentator: Richard Feldman

Professor of Philosophy, University of Rochester

The philosophy department at the University of Rochester is proud to announce the Fifth Biennial Rochester Graduate Epistemology Conference, to be held October 10-11, 2008. We welcome submissions in the field of analytic epistemology, broadly construed. We also welcome hybrid epistemology papers which are also (partially) in the fields of ethics, the philosophy of mind, philosophy of language, philosophy of religion, or metaphysics.

REQUIREMENTS: Papers should be no more than 4000 words (approx. 13 pages), excluding notes. Submissions should also include a second sheet with an abstract (200 words or less). Papers should be suitable for blind review: include detachable cover page with the paper's title, author's name, mailing address, email, phone number, school affiliation, and word count; please omit any self-identifying marks within the body of the paper.

DEADLINE: Papers must be received by August 5, 2008. Papers should be either emailed as an attachment to conference organizer Trent Dougherty at UR.Epistemology@Gmail.com in Word, WordPerfect, or other standard word processor.

Conference Web Page: <http://mail.rochester.edu/~tdougher/>